RED SOX AFFIRMATIVE ACTION POLICY

The Red Sox will not discriminate against any employee or applicant because of race, religion, color, sex, age, national origin, or ancestry. The Red Sox will take affirmative action to insure that such individuals are treated during their employment without regard to race, religion, color, sex, age, national origin, or ancestry. Such action shall include but not be limited to the following: hiring, upgrading, demotion, transfer, recruitment, layoff, rates of pay, all other forms of compensation, and selection for training. • Personnel procedures and practices with regard to training, promotion, transfer, compensation, demotion, layoff, or termination are to be administered with due regard to job performance, experience and qualifications, but without discrimination because of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, or ancestry. • It is the policy of the Red Sox that, in the process of recruitment for and appointment to the work force, qualified minority group candidates will be encouraged to apply. • The Red Sox will not discriminate against any rehabilitated employee or applicant because of previous psychiatric treatment and/or confinement in a mental health facility. Employment will not be denied for such medical history unless there is a bonafide occupational qualification which precludes employment. Additionally, the Red Sox will not discriminate against any rehabilitated employee or applicant for employment because of physical handicap unless there is a bonafide occupational qualification which precludes employment. • The Red Sox will not discriminate against qualified minority-owned vendors and suppliers, including suppliers of both professional and non-professional services. The Red Sox will request that its vendors and suppliers submit assurance of their commitments to the goal of equal employment opportunity. The Red Sox will not discriminate in the leasing of commercial space. • Any Red Sox employee judged to be in willful and deliberate non-compliance with this equal opportunity policy will be subject to disciplinary action.

FENWAY PARK CODE OF CONDUCT

Come often to friendly Fenway Park, home of the Boston Red Sox. To preserve the family atmosphere and to ensure that your visit is safe, enjoyable, and memorable, please adhere to the following guidelines of behavior in the ballpark. • The following items are prohibited from entering the ballpark: beach balls or inflatable objects of any kind, alcoholic beverages, glass bottles, cans, or containers of any sort, and offensive articles or objects. No banners will be allowed into the ballpark to be hung or paraded. • Any person using obscene or abusive language or any other antisocial behavior offensive to those around them will be asked to cease this conduct. If the offensive conduct persists, those individuals involved will be subject to immediate ejection from the ballpark. • Fans are permitted to keep foul balls hit into the stands as souvenirs. However, fans must not go onto the field or interfere in any way with a ball in play. Fans interfering with play or entering onto the field will be subject to immediate ejection, arrest, and prosecution. • There are designated non-alcohol sections—Grandstand sections 32 and 33. These sections have been set aside and no alcoholic beverages will be allowed in these areas. Red Sox Security will strictly enforce this prohibition. • It is illegal for individuals to offer tickets for resale to the public. Failure to adhere to this policy could result in arrest and criminal prosecution. • Laws prohibiting consumption of alcoholic beverages by minors, illegal drugs, and disorderly conduct of any kind, including intoxication, will be strictly enforced at Fenway Park. • The throwing of any object in the stands or onto the playing field is strictly prohibited. Those engaging in such conduct will be subject to immediate ejection. • Persons not occupying the seat for which they are ticketed will be subject to ejection from the ballpark.

BY CUTTING YOUR BEARD BELOW THE SKIN IN COMPLETE COMFORT, NORELCO RAISES THE STANDARDS OF SHAVING.

It sounds incredible.

But that's because it is.

Norelco® can actually shave you

Razor combs quickly direct hair to the "Lift and Cut" system.

Lifter notches into hair and lifts it up.

Blade cuts lifted hair which then drops back below skin level.

below skin level to give you an exceptionally close shave. And because you can shave without the blades even touching your face, the results are remarkably comfortable.

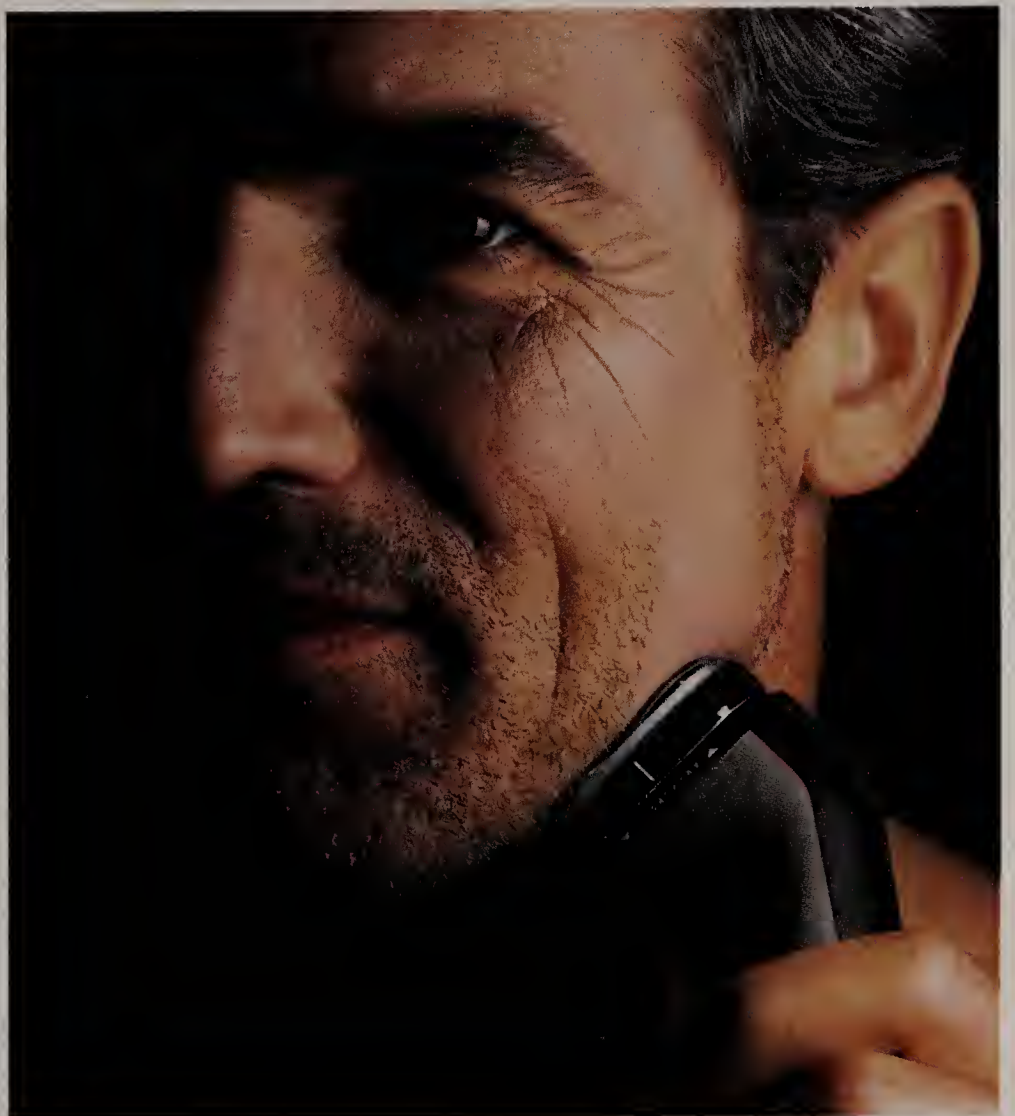

How is this possible?

Norelco's patented "Lift and Cut"™ system is skillfully engineered with a precision lifter positioned in front of the blade. When the lifter notches into a hair, it lifts it up. As the blade cuts it, the hair shaft can actually drop below the skin. The blades don't even touch your face.

Such superior technology delivers not only an incredibly close shave. But a totally comfortable one.

Try the Norelco.

And begin appreciating the highest standards of shaving for yourself.

Norelco®

We make close comfortable.

FRONT OFFICE

JOHN L. HARRINGTON

John L. Harrington is the president of the JRY Corporation, the majority partner of the Boston Red Sox. Harrington joined the Red Sox in 1973 after serving as controller of the American League of Professional Baseball from 1970-73. He is also currently the executive director and trustee of the Yawkey Foundations, which support numerous humanitarian, cultural, educational and athletic endeavors.

Prior to entering baseball in 1970, Harrington was an assistant professor at the Graduate School of Management at Boston College, his alma mater, where he conducted courses in Managerial Accounting and Management Information Systems. He earned his Bachelors degree from BC in 1957 and his Masters degree in Business Administration in 1966, while also being licensed as a certified public accountant in 1966.

A commissioned naval officer from 1958-60, Harrington was aboard the USS Charles R. Ware, a Navy Destroyer that travelled extensively throughout the world.

Harrington is a director of the Shawmut Bank of Boston and the New England Sports Network. He is also affiliated with various charities, serving as a director of Emmanuel College and the Catholic Charitable Bureau of Greater Boston. In the past, he was president of BC's Alumni Association, and also corporate secretary and trustee of the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute. He was the recipient of the William McKenny Award from BC and has received a papal appointment as a Knight of Malta.

Harrington and his wife, Maureen, reside in Westwood, MA and have three children: Brian, Sean, and a married daughter, Debra McNulty.

HAYWOOD C. SULLIVAN

Haywood Sullivan has been a general partner in the ownership of the Red Sox since May 1978. He is a Boston baseball success story — a reserve catcher who rose from the dugout to team ownership.

A top pro prospect in both football and baseball, Sullivan signed with the Red Sox on June 15, 1952. The Sox outbid the New York Yankees, among other teams, for Sullivan's services. The 6-4, 210-pounder, plagued by chronic back problems, played in only 60 games over parts of four seasons for the Sox before being dealt to the Kansas City A's, where he appeared in 252 games from 1961-63 before retiring to manage in the minors. Two seasons later, in 1965, he was back to manage the A's, leaving at year's end to rejoin the Red Sox as vice president in charge of player personnel. Within a year, on the heels of eight sub-.500 seasons, the Red Sox became contenders. And so they have remained under Sullivan's leadership.

Sullivan is a member of Major League Baseball's Budget and Audit Committee, Umpire Development and Long-Range Planning Committee. He was elected in 1988 to his second four-year term on the Major League Executive Council, and is a trustee of the Jimmy Fund.

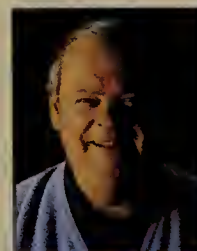

LOU GORMAN

Lou Gorman is running the Sox' baseball operations for the ninth year. He handles all matters relating to the operation of the major league club on the field, and holds the overall responsibility for the procurement and development of talent.

Coming to Boston was a return to his roots for Gorman, who grew up in Providence, Rhode Island. Lou graduated from LaSalle Academy in Providence and Stonehill College in North Easton, Massachusetts.

He began his major league career as the assistant farm and scouting director for the Baltimore Orioles, after having served in the minors as general manager at Lakeland, in the Florida State League and Kinston, NC, in the Carolina League. In 1985, he was inducted into the Kinston Sports Hall of Fame.

Lou serves on the Major League Amateur Study Committee, the Major League College and High School Committee, and is a member of the board of directors of the Major League Scouting Bureau. He is also on the board of visitors of Massachusetts Maritime Academy, and the Science/Management Council at Bridgewater State College.

MANAGER

BUTCH HOBSON

On October 8, 1991 former Red Sox third baseman Butch Hobson signed a two-year contract to become the club's 38th manager.

Butch, the Sox' eighth pick in the 1973 June draft, played five of his eight major league seasons in Boston, from 1975-1980.

He still holds the team's season records for home runs (30) and RBI (112) for third basemen, a mark he set in 1977.

In 1991, his first year managing at the triple-A level, Butch guided Pawtucket, cellar dwellers the year before, to first place in the International League, earning him recognition as IL Manager of the Year. This season marks his first as a major league skipper.

Spring is in the air. People are doing wild and crazy things. And there's only one cure: you've got to get some energy in your life. You've got to rock 'n roll.

So, turn up the music, get some get up and go, put some pep in your step. Go nuts. Literally. Try the great taste of Planters Nuts.

You'll be rockin' and rollin' in no time.

COACHES

AL BUMBRY • GARY ALLENSON • RICH GALE • RICK BURLESON • DON ZIMMER

AL BUMBRY 37 • First Base Coach In addition to his coaching duties, Al handles the pre-game conditioning program, outfield defensive fundamentals and game positioning, and baserunning instruction. He spent 12 of his 13-year major league career with Baltimore, and still holds the Orioles' career stolen base record (252).

GARY ALLENSON 32 • Bullpen Coach The former catcher spent six full seasons playing for Boston from 1979-1984. Gary returned to the Sox system in 1989 to manage Lynchburg for two years, and was the skipper at New Britain last season.

RICH GALE 35 • Pitching Coach Rich pitched seven seasons in the majors, including 13 games for the Sox in 1984. He has coached under Butch Hobson at both New Britain and Pawtucket, and this year makes his debut as a big league coach.

RICK BURLESON 7 • Hitting Instructor One of the Sox' most popular players in the 1970s, the Rooster returns after 11 seasons in various positions with other clubs. The former shortstop hit .274 in seven years with Boston, and batted .333 in the 1975 post-season. He won a Gold Glove in 1979 and played in four All-Star games (1977-79, '81).

DON ZIMMER 34 • Third Base Coach Zim returns to Boston to coach under Hobson, whom he managed as a Red Sox player from 1976-80. He brings his 43 years of pro baseball experience back to the team he managed and coached for six years.

he Rocket launched his third Cy Young season with a 6-0, 0.73 ERA record, his best start since going 14-0 in 1986. En route to the award he struck out his 1,600th career batter, hurled 30 consecutive scoreless innings from April 9-23, tossed seven 10-K games, and fanned 200+ for the sixth straight season. His 2.62 ERA, 271.1 Innings pitched, 241 strikeouts, 35 starts, and four shutouts all led or tied for tops in the American League.

Record-smashing was the order of the day for Jeff. He became the first pitcher ever to record 10 straight 20-save seasons; with his 308th career save on July 6 versus the Tigers, he moved into second place on the all-time list behind Rollie Fingers; he joined Dennis Eckersley as the only two ML pitchers with three 40-save seasons; he set an ML mark with his sixth 30-save season; and with his 34th save broke Bob Stanley's Red Sox single season record.

Clark made his Red Sox debut with a bang—literally—when on April 8 at Toronto's SkyDome he became the first Sox to hit an Opening Day grand slam since Carlton Fisk in 1973. He drove in seven runs against the Tigers on July 5 to match his career high, and had a three-homer game including a grand slam and a two-out, 14th-inning solo smash on July 31 to hand the Sox an 11-10 win over the visiting Athletics.

The new Braun Flex Control.

Its pivoting head is designed to conform to your face...like no other shaver before it.

Your face has many different angles and curves. So Braun has introduced Flex Control—the first electric shaver with a pivoting head.

It automatically adjusts itself to each curve on your face, always maintaining the optimal shaving angle. To deliver Braun's closest shave ever.

And with the twin foil coated in platinum, the shaver glides smoothly and effortlessly across your face.

Simply because when it came to making a better shaver—we first studied your face.

And then we designed the Braun Flex Control accordingly.

BRAUN

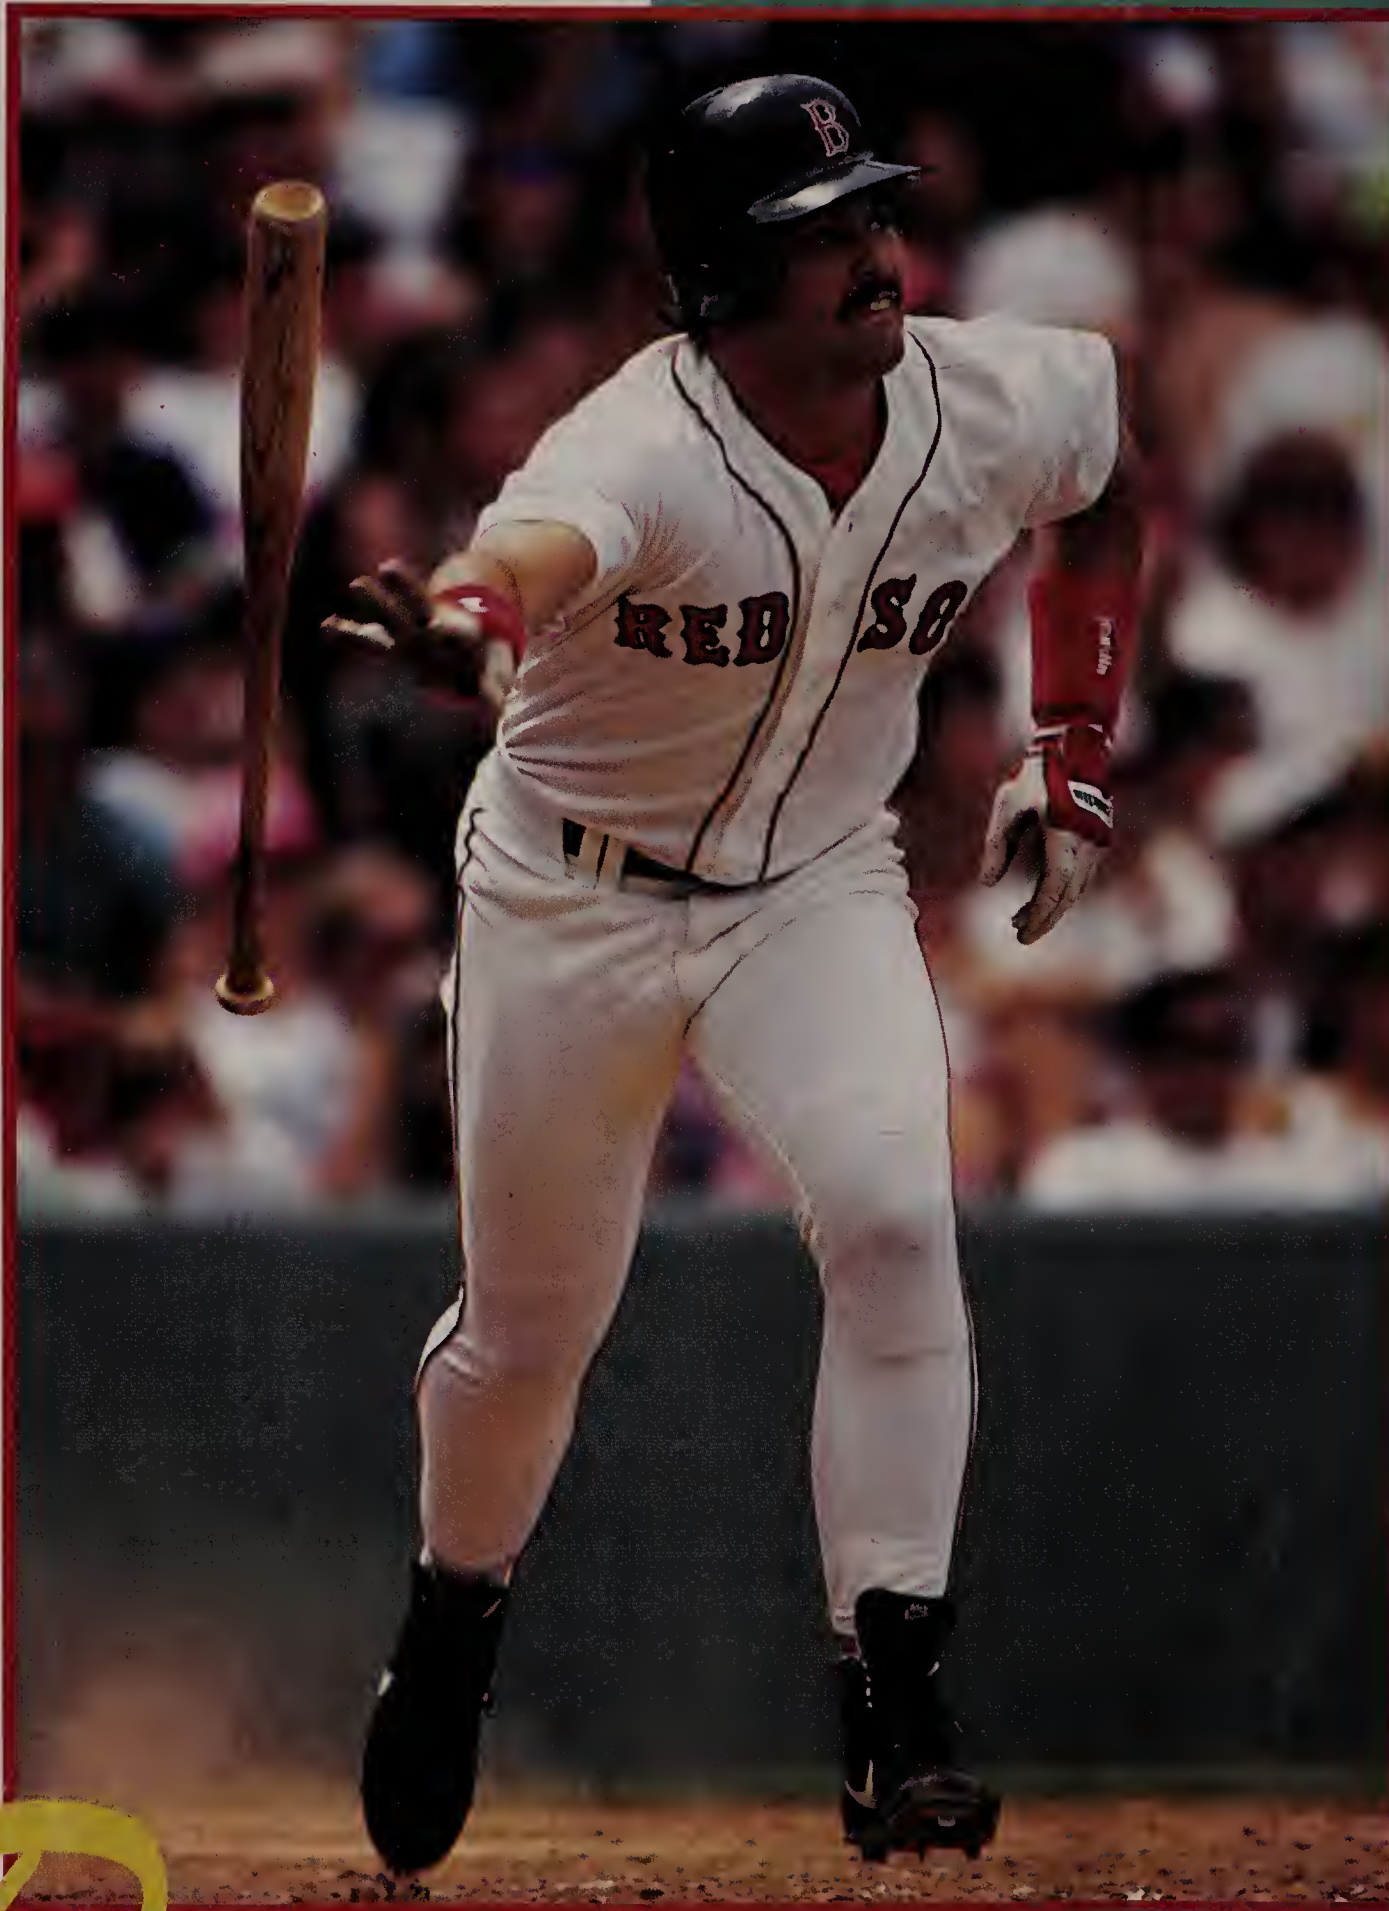

Designed to perform better.

Despite injuries at the end of the season, the Gator put together an impressive campaign. He ranked second on the Red Sox in RBI, collected four four-hit games, led the club with 27 game-tying and go-ahead RBI, and also placed second with 21 multi-RBI games. He had a team high, 17-game hit streak in June and posted the second six-RBI game of his career on September 7 versus Seattle.

Frank Viola has started 34 or more games each of the past nine seasons. The former American League Cy Young Award winner hurled a scoreless fifth inning in his third All Star Game on July 9 in Toronto, and had an impressive 11-5, 2.78 record for the Mets by July 17 before an infected fingernail and an injured left ring finger affected his performance the rest of the season.

During another productive season in the dual role of starter (21 games) and a reliever (32 games), Greg became only the second Sox ever with 20 starts and 30 relief appearances in a season. Along the way, he tied his career high with nine strikeouts in a game against the Angels on June 17 at Fenway. His nine-inning complete game at Toronto's SkyDome on August 10, a 7-1 Sox victory, was the first complete game of his career.

he Q had a productive year both in the field and at the plate. Defensively, he tied for the American League lead in assists (101) among first basemen, a category he led in 1990 as well. Offensively, he had the first multiple home run games of his career June 10 in Seattle and August 9 in Toronto. With a grand slam and a two-run double, he became the 11th player in history to drive in six runs in an inning, in an 11-6 Sox win over the Rangers on July 30.

runo came out of the box with a vengeance, knocking in 43 runs in his first 69 games and batting .321 with 23 RBI with runners in scoring position during April and May. He homered in back-to-back games May 21-22 as the Sox beat the Brewers in both contests, and put on a show in Seattle on September 1 with a grand slam and 6 RBI.

TOM BOLTON

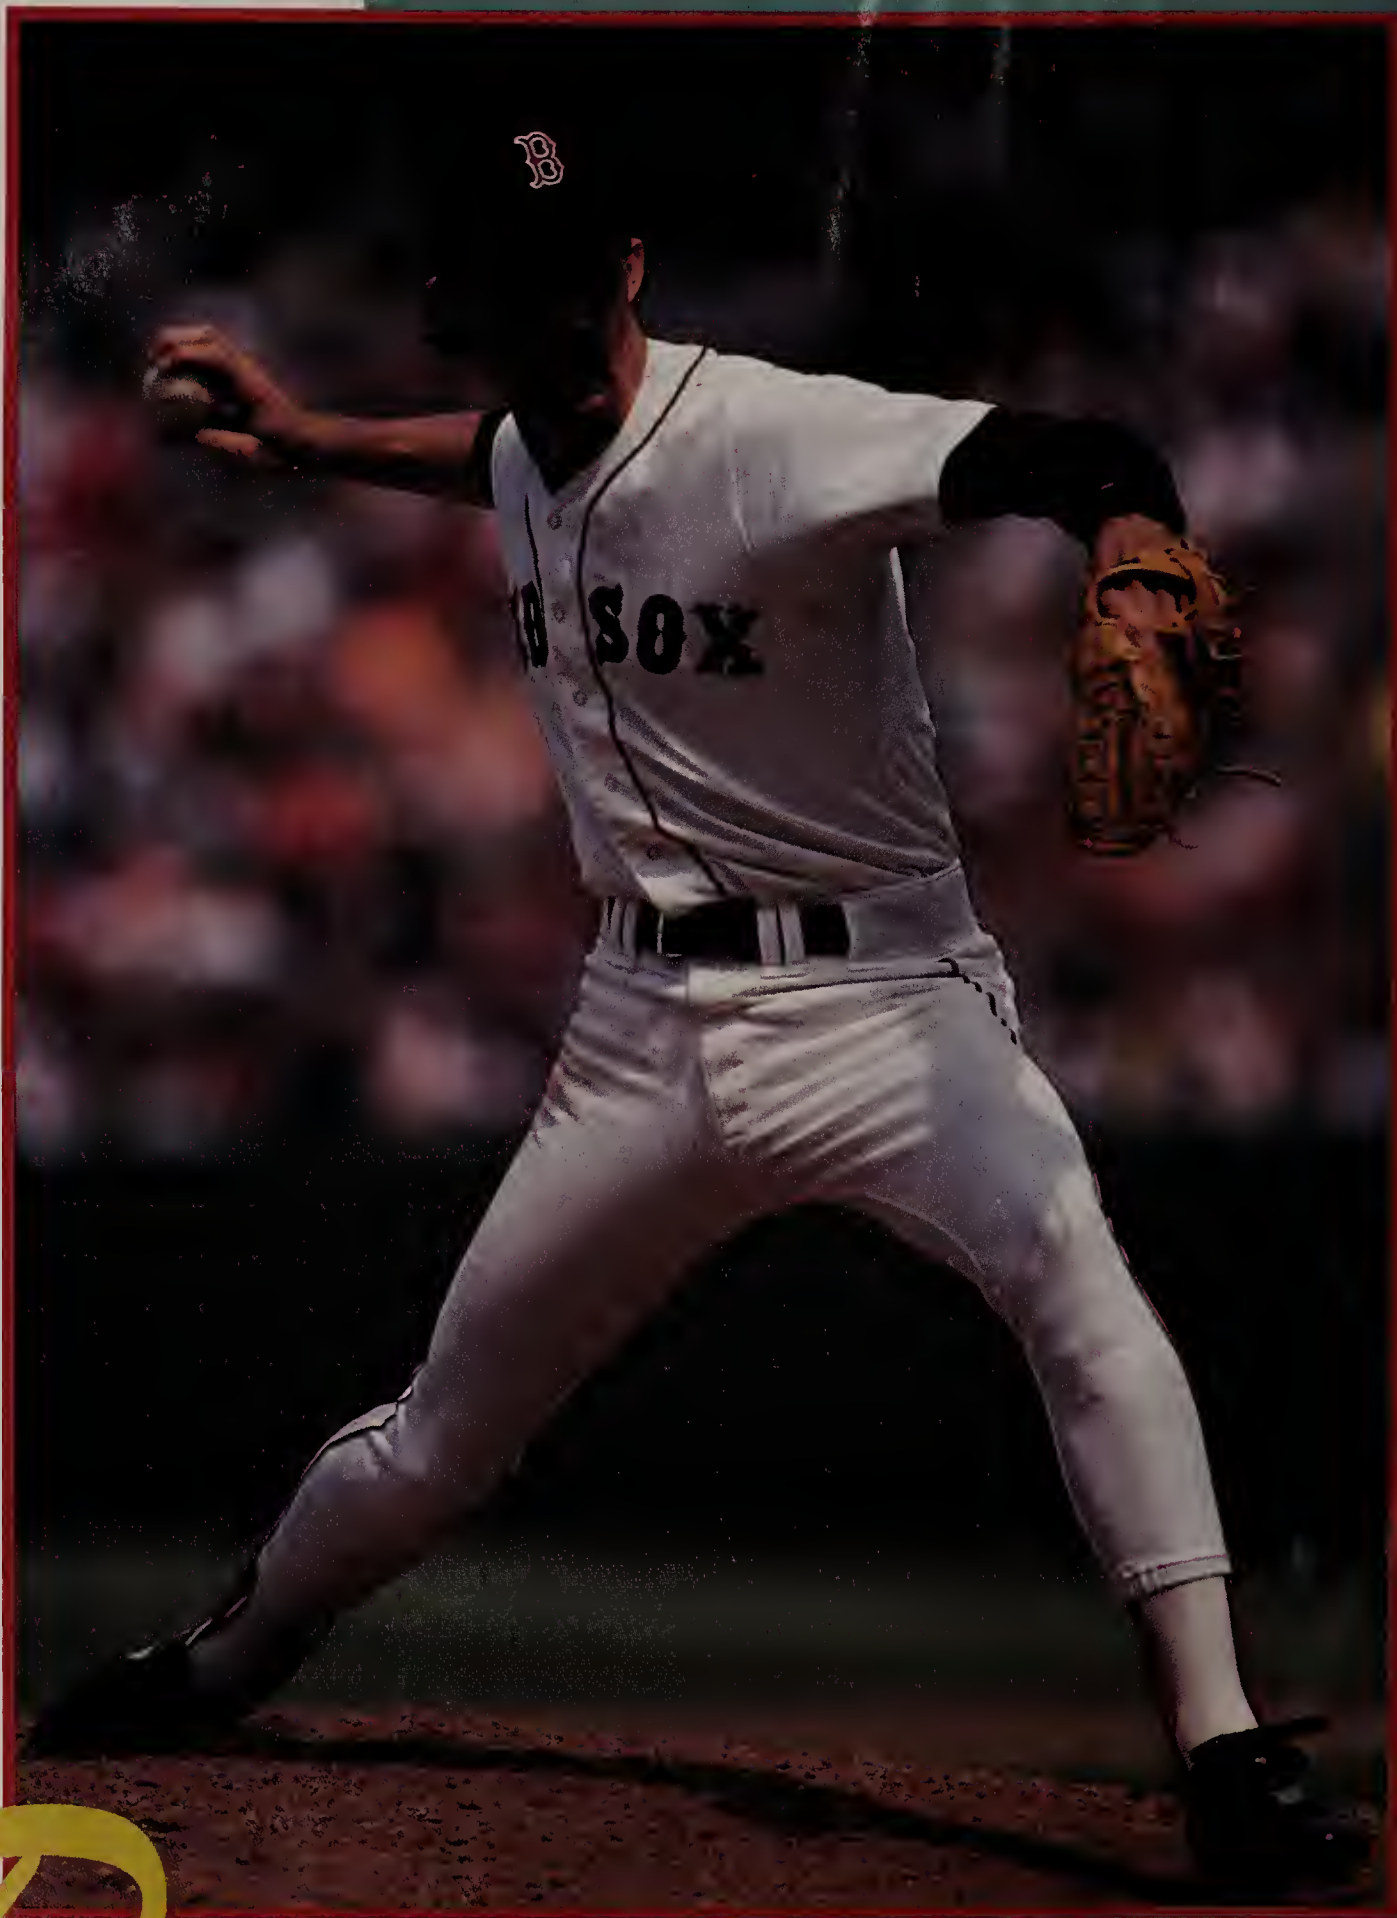

..... 1991 memorabilia

After a decade in the Red Sox system, the lanky lefthander started the season in Boston for the first time. Following 5 1/3 shutout relief innings over the Indians on April 11, Tom earned a spot in the rotation. His first start, on April 17, was a 6-2 victory against the Royals, the first of four straight decisions he won through May 14.

Darwin earned his first Boston victory on April 16 at Fenway, throwing 7 2/3 innings of five-hit, two-run ball at the Royals and retiring 16 straight from the second inning through the seventh. That win was the first of the season by any Sox pitcher other than Clemens. Darwin's season was cut short, however, by two stints on the disabled list due to bronchial pneumonia and tendinitis in April and May, and a tear in his right rotator cuff in July.

back-up shortstop at the start of the season, Luis took over the position in May and performed steadily all season, playing in a career-high 129 games. His eight home runs, also a career high, included an inside-the-park shot to Fenway's right field in the sixth inning on June 21, the deciding run in a 3-2 Sox win over the Athletics.

he Hit Dog, ironically, walked in his first major league plate appearance on June 27, waiting until the next day to tally his first hit, a single. He nearly sent his first home run into orbit on June 30, as it traveled 438 feet and came within five rows of becoming the second ball in history to exit Baltimore's Memorial Stadium. Mo launched his second homer 435 feet the next day in Milwaukee's County Stadium on his way to collecting four RBI.

PHIL PLANTIER

Phil hammered his first major league home run on August 16 off Royals reliever Storm Davis, breaking up a tense 1-1 pitcher's duel in the eighth inning for the deciding runs in a 3-2 Sox win. He delivered a dramatic three-run, pinch homer into Yankee Stadium's upper deck September 13 for a 5-4 Sox win, and belted two more round-trippers against the Yankees on September 21.

..... Matt began the season in the starting rotation and got off to a promising start, hurling four no-hit innings in his debut on April 10 at Toronto and nine shutout innings in the 13-inning April 15 marathon against the Indians at Fenway. He had to settle for two no-decisions, however, as the Sox lost both contests. A rotator cuff tear, which kept him on the disabled list from June 11-August 1, hampered his performance the last two months.

..... 1991 memorabilia

John's one-out pinch single in the 10th inning off Mariners reliever Milt Jackson drove in the winning run in a dramatic 4-3 contest on September 5. In his first full season with the Sox, the backup catcher was 5-for-6 driving in runners from third with fewer than two outs. Behind the plate, he gunned down 10 of 24 potential base stealers.

1967- 25 Years of Possible Dreams 1991

Nothing can compare to the thrills of a late-season pennant race. And at Fenway Park, an entire generation has come to expect that, come September, the Red Sox will be right in the thick of things.

Veteran fans remember that it wasn't always so. Used to be, they'll recall, that September was a month to lay back and muse about what might have been. Until 25 years ago, that is, when a wake-up call was delivered to an extraordinary ballclub, and a slumbering Boston franchise returned to winning ways.

The Sox have waged competitive campaigns virtually every season from '67 on, and in five of those years, the reward has been a championship crown.

On the occasion of the silver anniversary of the Impossible Dream Team, re-live with us the dreams that began in 1967.

f all Red Sox pennant races before and after, "The Impossible Dream" is perhaps recalled and cherished the most. Winning championships, after all, had been a lost art for over two decades. The post-World War II Boston powerhouses had begun to decline during the mid-'50s, and from 1959-66 the franchise did not post a winning season. After losing 100 games in 1965, the Sox "improved" by 10 games the next year and finished a half-game out of the basement.

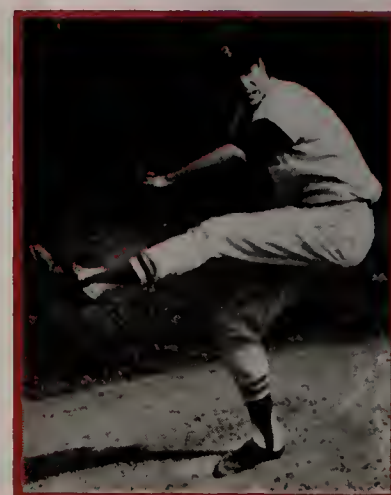

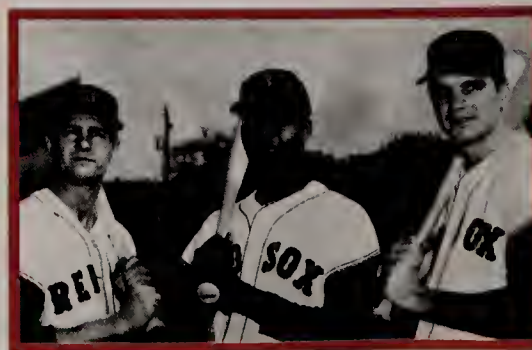

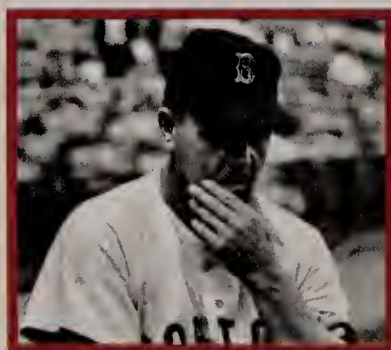

So when rookie manager Dick Williams brashly predicted during spring training of 1967 that his club would win more than it lost, long-suffering fans could be forgiven for their skepticism. But Williams delivered, as the Sox played hard-nosed ball from the first day of spring training.

After hovering around the .500 mark for the first half, the Sox erupted in mid-July. A 10-game winning streak—the club's longest in 16 years—pulled the "Cardiac Kids" to within a half-game of the first-place White Sox. The last six of these victories were on the road, and when the team came home, Williams and his players were greeted by 15,000 wildly cheering fans (photo, previous page). "How can we lose," marveled outfielder Tony Conigliaro, "with people like that behind us?"

On August 26, the Sox held sole possession of first place that late for the first time in 18 years. The race was now a wild and woolly free-for-all among the Tigers, Twins, White Sox, and Red Sox, who took turns leapfrogging into the lead. With 10 games to go, it was Boston's and Minnesota's turn, with Chicago a half-game and Detroit one game back. Then, a yeoman effort by Carl Yastrzemski, hitting over .500 down the stretch, carried the Sox into a season-ending two-game series with the Twins at Fenway. A split would spell doom for the hometown nine. But a sweep would oust the Twins and, with the White Sox already eliminated, leave only the Tigers.

Yaz's three-run homer won the first game. In the second his game-tying single and a throw to peg the potential tying run at second kept the Sox alive. When shortstop Rico Petrocelli squeezed Rich Rollins' pop for the final out, pandemonium reigned. Then a hush descended as players and fans hunched around radios to listen to the Tigers' contest. Detroit's Dick McAuliffe grounded into a game-ending double play, and the Red Sox were champions for the first time since 1946.

"I think 1967 not only turned on the fans, but I think it turned the whole Red Sox organization around. We expected to go out and win instead of lose."

MEMORABILIA

- 1. JUNE 15 Down 1-0 with two outs and nobody on in the bottom of the 11th, Joe Foy singles and Tony Conigliaro homers into the screen to lift the Sox to a 2-1 win over Chicago.
- 2. JUNE 21 The Yankees' Thad Tillotson hits Foy with a pitch in the second. Lonborg retaliates by drilling Tillotson in the bottom of the inning and the benches clear. In the third, Tillotson smacks Lonborg with a pitch, emptying the benches again. Gentleman Jim then brushes back Charley Smith and beans Dick Howser en route to a galvanizing 8-1 win.
- 3. AUGUST 18 Tony C, the youngest player in history to hit 100 major league homers, is struck in the face by a pitch from California's Jack Hamilton, derailing him for the season.
- 4. AUGUST 20 Jerry Adair's eighth-inning homer caps a rally from an 8-0 deficit, lifting the Sox to a dramatic 9-8 triumph and a doubleheader sweep over California.
- 5. AUGUST 27 Elston Howard blocks the plate, enabling right fielder Jose Tartabull to throw out fleet Ken Berry for the final out and preserve a 4-3 Red Sox victory in the first game of a doubleheader at Chicago.

he seven years following the Impossible Dream were fire and ice for the Sox and their fans. While the franchise had indeed turned a corner, posting winning records in every season, the teams weren't quite strong enough to catch hot clubs in Detroit and Baltimore.

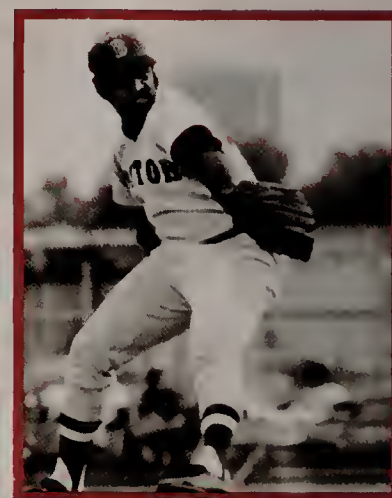

In 1972 the Sox finished an agonizing half-game behind the Tigers, due to a players' strike which had left baseball with unbalanced schedules. Detroit ultimately played 156 games to Boston's 155, and beat the Sox two out of three at the end of the season to squeeze the title. Then in 1974 the Sox seemed to have the division wrapped up in late August when Luis Tiant shut out Oakland 3-0 for his 20th win to provide a seven-game cushion. The Orioles, however, won 28 of their final 34 games, while the Sox dropped 21 of their last 35 to wind up third, seven games out.

A pair of rookies put the pop back in the Sox the following season, as Fred Lynn and Jim Rice led the club to 95 victories and the pennant. As the only player in history to win the Rookie of the Year and MVP awards in the same year, Lynn hit a whopping .331 with 21 homers, 47 doubles, and 105 RBI. Rice had compiled a .309 average with 22 homers and 102 RBI before his season ended on September 21 due to a broken hand.

Two mid-season additions also buoyed the team. On June 13 the Sox bought Denny Doyle from the Angels, and he proved to be a stretch run catalyst by putting together a 22-game hitting streak and batting .310 while scoring a career-high 50 runs in 89 games. Carlton Fisk, who had missed an entire calendar year with a career-threatening knee injury and a broken right arm, returned to the lineup on June 23 and hit .331 with 10 homers, 52 RBI, and 47 runs in 79 games. Thus fortified, the club took over first for good on June 29, beating the Yankees 3-2. Holding a tenuous one-game lead in mid-July, the Sox reeled off 10 straight wins. After going 9-6 on a rugged 16-day, six-city road trip, the club came home seven up with 37 to play.

There would be no late-season heartbreaks this time. The Sox clinched a tie on September 26 by sweeping a doubleheader from Cleveland by identical 4-0 scores as Tiant and Reggie Cleveland hurled shutouts on a foggy evening at Fenway. A 5-2 loss to the Indians the following afternoon delayed the outright clinching for several hours until the Orioles lost the first game of a doubleheader to the Yankees that night.

MEMORABILIA

- 1. JUNE 18 At Detroit, Lynn homers three times, narrowly misses a fourth which hits the top of the screen in left-center for a triple, singles, and drives in 10 runs as the Sox rout the Tigers 15-1.
- 2. JULY 27 Lynn makes a sensational diving catch in left-center in the ninth inning at Shea Stadium to preserve Bill Lee’s 1-0 win over the Yankees in the first game of a doubleheader. The Sox win the second game 6-0 and lead by eight.
- 3. SEPTEMBER 4 With the bases loaded in the first inning at Baltimore, Orioles third baseman Brooks Robinson grabs Rice’s grounder and steps on third to force Yaz, but throws wildly to first trying to complete an inning-ending double play. Yaz keeps running as first baseman Lee May, not realizing Yaz is out, retrieves the ball and tries to nail No. 8 at the plate. The throw gets by and Lynn scampers home with the second run in a 3-1 victory, knocking the Orioles eight back.
- 4. SEPTEMBER 16 The Orioles send Jim Palmer to the mound against Tiant at Fenway. With the game scoreless in the third, Palmer doesn’t like the feel of the baseball and throws it in to the umpire. Palmer doesn’t like the next one either. He finally gets a ball he likes, but Petrocelli likes it even better and blasts it into the screen for a homer. The Sox win, 2-0.
- 5. SEPTEMBER 22 The Sox, up 3 1/2 games over the Orioles with seven to play, lead the Yankees 6-4 in the ninth at Shea Stadium during a driving rainstorm. The Yankees have runners at first and second with two outs and Bobby Bonds at the plate, and the field is so soaked and slippery that a ball hit out of the infield would likely be unreachable. Dick Drago doesn’t give Bonds the chance, striking him out swinging to end the game.

After 1975's revival, Sox fans thought they had the makings of a baseball dynasty with talented young players like Lynn, Rice, Rick Burleson, Fisk, Cecil Cooper, and Dwight Evans as the nucleus. But despite robust totals of 97 wins in 1977, 99 in 1978, and 91 in 1979, those teams couldn't capture the flag in the potent American League East. The biggest disappointment occurred in 1978 when the Sox dropped a one-game playoff for the division to the Yankees. Then, after finishing one game out in the second half of the player strike-induced 1981 split season, a steady decline set in. In 1983 the Sox suffered through their first losing season since 1966.

It took a blend of live young arms and wily veteran hitters in 1986 to resurrect winning ways. Fireballing Roger Clemens, who won his first 14 decisions, claimed both the MVP and Cy Young awards. The Rocket wound up at 24-4 with a league-leading 2.48 ERA, while flamboyant Oil Can Boyd pocketed 16 victories, and Bruce Hurst blossomed to win 13.

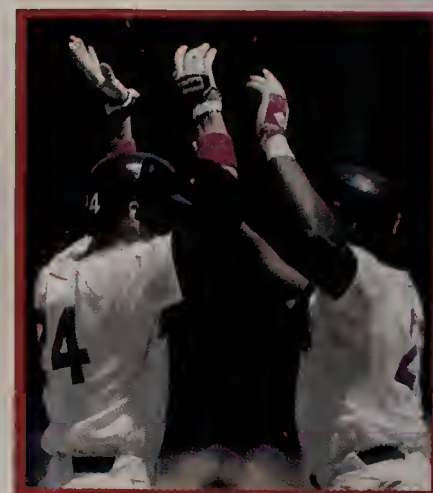

Offensively, there was plenty of productivity. Rice hit .324 with 20 homers and 110 RBI; Wade Boggs won his third batting crown with a .357 average; Don Baylor socked 31 homers and drove in 94; Evans slammed 26 homers and knocked in 97; and Bill Buckner had 102 RBI.

The Sox moved into first on May 14 when homers by Boggs and Rich Gedman highlighted an eight-run outburst over the final three innings to beat the Angels 8-5 in Anaheim. The team never relinquished that hold. Amazingly, the lead was actually extended during the final two weeks of May despite disabling injuries to pitchers Al Nipper, Hurst, and Sammy Stewart.

By early July the margin was up to eight games, but the Sox scuffled over the remainder of the month. The pesky Orioles heated up and made a run, inching to within 2 1/2 games in early August before fading. The defending division champion Blue Jays also took a stab, creeping to within 3 1/2 games on August 29.

The following day, however, the club embarked upon an 11-game winning streak to break the would-be race wide open. By September 18 the lead was up to 10 1/2, and ten days later the club clinched the division as Boyd beat the Blue Jays 12-3 at Fenway.

MEMORABILIA

- 1. APRIL 7 As a harbinger of things to come, Evans slams the very first pitch of the season, delivered by Jack Morris, over the 400-foot mark in Detroit's left-center for a home run.
- 2. APRIL 29 The Rocket strikes out 20 Seattle Mariners in a nine-inning game at Fenway to set a major league record, winning 3-1 on Evans' 3-run homer in the seventh.
- 3. MAY 18 With the Sox trailing the Rangers 4-3 in the bottom of the 10th, Steve Lyons and Marty Barrett inexplicably slide into second base from opposite directions on Barrett's bloop double, but both score when rightfielder George Wright hurls the ball into the Texas dugout, and the Sox stay a half-game ahead of the Yankees.
- 4. MAY 27 At fog-shrouded Municipal Stadium in Cleveland, center fielder Tony Armas tracks down a barely discernible long fly by Mel Hall which, had it fallen, could have tied the game. Armas emerges from the mist to present the evidence to the baffled umpires. After signalling an out, they call the game, and the Sox take the 2-0, 6-inning victory.
- 5. JUNE 25 Al Nipper, who had suffered a severe spike injury to his knee on May 18, hobbles back from the DL to beat the onrushing Yankees and halt a three-game skid.

The year 1987 will not go down as one of the Sox' most memorable campaigns. But that season should be remembered as the first full major league test for talented prospects Mike Greenwell, Ellis Burks, and Todd Benzinger. The benefits of a productive farm system were realized in 1988, as the Sox became the first team since the advent of the amateur draft to win a championship with an entirely home-grown starting lineup: Gedman (C), Benzinger (1B), Barrett (2B), Reed (SS), Boggs (3B), Greenwell (LF), Burks (CF), Evans (RF), and Rice (DH) along with pitchers Clemens, Hurst, Boyd, and Bob Stanley.

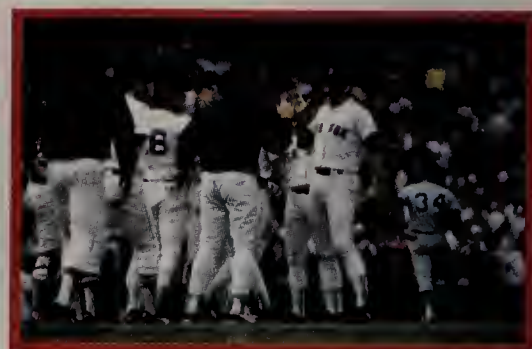

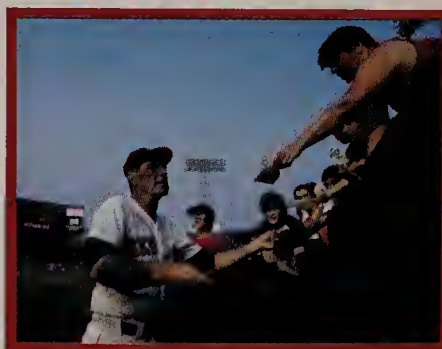

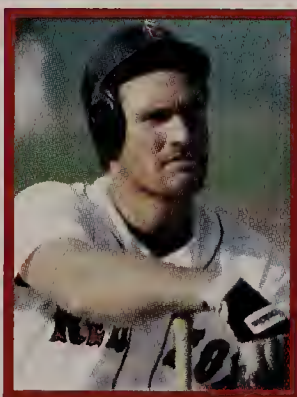

Primarily due to early season injuries, the team started slowly and by June 13 was mired in fifth, 10 games behind the Yankees. Still nine games back at the All Star break, the Sox turned to long time organization man Joe Morgan to replace John MacNamara as manager.

An incredible string of 12 straight victories, and 19 of the first 20, under the new skipper vaulted the Sox into a first-place tie with the Tigers on August 2, and New England was spell-bound by "Morgan's Magic." Coming back to reality, the club lost the first four of a five-game showdown in Detroit before Hurst salvaged the finale with a gutsy 3-0, 10-inning victory. After dropping three of four in Milwaukee, the Sox returned to the friendly confines for a rematch with the Tigers. Taking the first two games, to run their home winning streak to an American League record 24, the Sox then dropped the third to fall 3 1/2 back.

The Sox struggled—but, thankfully, the Tigers struggled even more. When Larry Parrish's 10th-inning homer beat the Angels in Anaheim on September 4, the club found themselves tied for the top again. In Baltimore the next night, the Sox took over sole possession of first. Those were the first two of 11 wins over 14 games, which helped open a six-game lead by September 18.

That lead began to evaporate, however, as the team sunk into a prolonged hitting slump. By the season's final week not only were the Tigers back nipping at the Sox' heels, so were the Blue Jays and the Brewers. Sox bats revived long enough for a 12-0 win for Mike Boddicker in Cleveland on September 29 that clinched a tie. Despite dropping the following night's contest, the Sox backed into the championship later that evening when the Brewers fell to the Athletics.

Following a third-place finish in 1989, the Sox re-captured American League East divisional honors in 1991 in exciting yet unexpected form. Although the team is better known historically as an offensive powerhouse, it was the pitching staff this time which dominated the league. The club posted 13 shutouts, yielded a major league low 92 home runs, and held the line to win 21 games in which the club scored three runs or fewer.

The season was defined by head-to-head confrontations with the Blue Jays. The Sox, down a half-game, hosted the reigning division champs for four games in early June. Though the Jays had, incredibly, won 15 straight at Fenway, the Sox swept this series to take over first. Only two games separated the rivals in late August when they met again in Toronto for four contests. The Jays pushed across an unearned run in the ninth to win the nail-biter opener 4-3, but Sox pitching then kicked in to shutout gear: Rookies Dana Kiecker and Jeff Gray teamed up for a 2-0 whitewash the following night; Clemens squeezed out a 1-0 victory with the aid of an Evans homer; and Greg Harris and Gray combined for a 1-0 finale as Reed's single drove in the lone run.

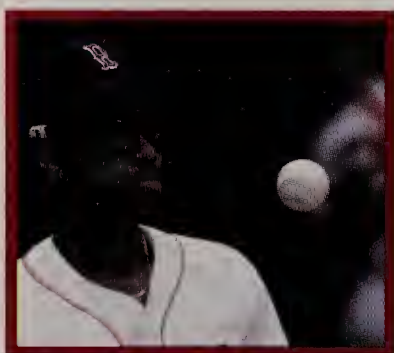

Thus inspired, the Sox proceeded to compile a 10-game win streak which left the club a comfortable 6 1/2 up on September 2. The Jays, however, remained in the rear-view mirror. It took a mere 13 days for that margin to evaporate, as a hitting slump plus Clemens' absence from September 4-29 due to a shoulder problem enabled Toronto to charge back into the race.

A first-place deadlock with six games left set the stage for a Sox-Jays three-game showdown at Fenway. The Sox took the see-saw opener, 7-6, on unknown Jeff Stone's 9th-inning pinch single. Brunansky's three homers then powered the Sox to a 7-5 win the next day before the Jays revived to win Sunday's contest and move back to one game off the pace.

The Sox clinched a tie for the title the following night by beating the White Sox while the Jays dropped one in Baltimore—but a one-game playoff loomed when the Sox and Clemens lost the next evening, and a Jays win shaved the lead to one once more.

It all came down to the final night of the season. Boddicker and Jeff Reardon—who had rushed back from serious mid-season back surgery to either win or save the final five victories—combined to hold Chicago to one run. With the tying runs on base, Brunansky's dramatic game-ending, sliding catch in right field off Ozzie Guillen brought yet another pennant to Fenway.

- 4. SEPTEMBER 29 Clemens, who hasn’t pitched in 24 days due to tendinitis, hurls six shutout innings, while Brunansky belts three homers and drives in five runs as the Sox beat the Jays 7-5, putting them two games up with four to go.
- 5. OCTOBER 3 The White Sox have the tying runs on base when Guillen pulls what seems to be at least a triple down the right field line. But Brunansky somehow gets to the ball and makes a breathtaking sliding catch for the season’s final out and a 3-1 victory, as the Sox clinch the American League East crown.

VOICES OF THE SOX

WRKO

Bob Starr and Joe Castiglione team up for their third year in the WRKO booth.

Castiglione, a Hamden, Connecticut native, began his major league broadcasting career in 1979 in Cleveland, and did TV play-by-play for the Brewers and Indians before coming to the Red Sox in 1983. Starr's career spans over 30 years of radio and TV work, including college football and basketball and NFL football. Before arriving in Boston in 1990, his baseball affiliations included play-by-play for the Giants, Cardinals, and Angels.

Joe Castiglione and Bob Starr

NESN

Veteran broadcaster Ned Martin and former Red Sox second baseman Jerry Remy return in 1992 for their fifth season together on NESN. Martin debuted with Curt Gowdy on Boston radio in 1961, moved to TV-38 in 1979, and joined NESN in 1985. Remy, a native of Somerset, Massachusetts, played for the Sox from 1978 through 1985. His best season came in 1978 when he batted .278, scored 87 runs and stole 30 bases. He compiled a .275 average over his eight years with Boston before a knee injury forced his retirement during spring training of 1986.

TV-38

Sean McDonough and Bob Montgomery team up for their fifth year calling games for Channel 38.

Montgomery's Red Sox ties stretch back to 1962, when he joined the system as a catcher. He made it to the big leagues in 1970, where he played for a decade. McDonough, after only four years as TV-38's play-by-play man, has earned national respect for his clear, accurate and often witty assessments of events on the field. He recently added CBS's 1992 Winter Olympics broadcasting team to his already extensive sports resumé.

CARTER RADIO NETWORK

Red Sox baseball will be broadcast in Spanish for the second season by Hector Martinez and Bobby Serrano.

Play-by-play man Martinez has worked in many aspects of radio and television, including news and sports announcing. He has extensive experience in broadcasting baseball both in the United States and in his native Puerto Rico. He is a regular contributor to La Semana newspaper and is active in many Boston-area public service projects.

Serrano, also from Puerto Rico, has a 20-year background in news and sports. He broadcast AA baseball in Puerto Rico and had served as program director at Cuenca Vision, Channel 19 in Boston. He teams up with Martinez as color commentator.

“Playing in Rhode Island was great.
But it’s terrific to get called up to Boston.”

Mike Gardiner

“We know the feeling.”
